

ARCHDIOCESE OF LOUISVILLE

MALONEY CENTER • 1200 SOUTH SHELBY STREET • LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY 40203-2600
502-636-0296 • 502-636-2379 (Fax) • diaconate@archlou.org (E-mail)

Diaconate Office

April 12, 2014

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Increasingly, in today's secular (and sometimes atheistic) culture, Catholics are challenged to defend The Faith. It can be a formidable challenge for those who are poorly prepared to explain and to share their Faith.

The Catholic Apologetics Institute of North America (CAINA) offers outstanding programming that can enrich and enable participants to answer the call of the New Evangelization: "Go out to the world and share the Good News."

Recently, CAINA presented two of its programs in the Archdiocese of Louisville: one in O'Brien Hall at Saint Louis Bertrand Church and the other at DeSales High School. Attendance and response were excellent.

Through its programming in adult enrichment and student instruction, CAINA encourages Catholics to rediscover the Art of Apologetics, which enables them to speak credibly, convincingly, and compellingly about their Faith.

Heartily, I recommend CAINA's programming.

Deacon Sylvester J. Nitzken
Past Vicar, Senior Deacons
Archdiocese of Louisville
Louisville, Kentucky

CC: Deacon Joseph P. Wright
Director of the Diaconate
Archdiocese of Louisville